THE SITUATION IN ONE SENTENCE

This account got huge on wholesome "joy baiting" street content — 10–36M views on the pinned reels, 2M likes on the top posts — and its recent pivot to anger-bait troll pranks ("Bro was so MAD…", "She did not take rejection well") is dying on delivery, because that format sits squarely in the harassment-pattern category Instagram demotes and viewers report; the account is running an accidental A/B test between its two formats, and the platform has already declared the winner.

Views per reel, Reels tab, Sept 29 2026 · cream bars = joy-bait format · sage bars = the recent run. Same creator, same camera, 36,000x spread by format.

THE READ

He already knows the answer — it's pinned to his own profile. The third pinned reel is literally titled "Joy Baiting >>> Rage Baiting" (10.7M views). The September grid then runs the exact format that manifesto argues against: provoking strangers into anger over a CD, a cigarette, money, and filming women's reactions to rejection.

Why the troll run dies on delivery: non-consensual irritation content — where the payoff is a stranger's anger or humiliation — is the harassment-pattern category from Meta's recommendation exclusions. It gets demoted per-post, it draws viewer reports (a visible comment on the rejection reel: "That was mean"), and if the run continues it graduates to account-level suppression that will drag the joy-bait content down with it.

The reach engine still works. The cigarette prank pulled 1.5M views six days ago — there is no account-level wall yet. This audit is about stopping the drift before there is one.

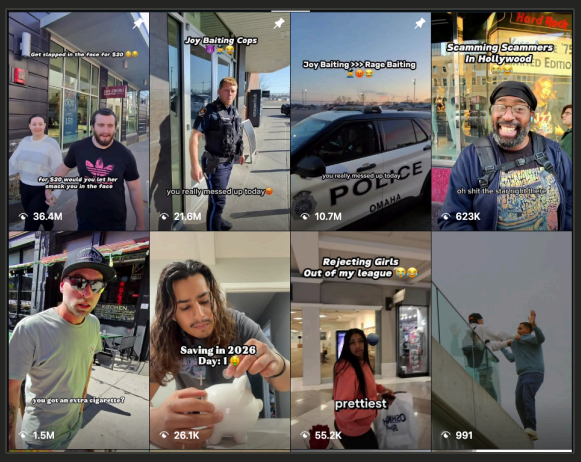

– Verified, 101K followers. Bio: "All Glory to God ✝️🙏 Making people laugh is my Passion 😂" – links to YouTube, Twitch, TikTok (all clean).

FINDINGS

HIGH — THE TROLL-PRANK RUN IS HARASSMENT-PATTERN CONTENT

- The September format: "Bro was so mad over a CD 💿" · "Bro was so mad over a cigarette 🚬" · "More money more problems" · "She did not take rejection well" — all tagged #prank #troll, all built on a non-consenting stranger's anger or embarrassment as the punchline.
- Policy: content depicting people being mocked, pranked, or harassed without consent is excluded from recommendation and is report-driven — flags arrive in bursts when a clip travels, which is exactly the "random flagging" pattern this niche complains about.
- The numbers already show it: the troll reels land at 991–55K views against pinned joy-bait at 10.7–36.4M. The "More money" reel took 215 likes on a 101K account.

— The Reels tab is the whole argument: pinned joy-bait at 36.4M / 21.6M / 10.7M — including his own "Joy Baiting >>> Rage Baiting" manifesto — above a recent row where troll-format reels sit at 55.2K and 991 views.

- Fix: end the troll run. The joy-bait formula — same streets, same strangers, positive payoff — is proven at 20–30x the reach and is fully recommendable.

HIGH — "REJECTING GIRLS" CONTENT IS THE WORST OF THE RUN

- What it is: "Rejecting Girls Out of my League" (55.2K views) and "She did not take rejection well" (1K likes) — approaching women to film their reaction to being rejected or mocked.
- Why it's the priority: it stacks the harassment-pattern read with a targeted-at-women dynamic that both the classifier and the audience punish hardest (top visible comment: "That was mean"). This is the sub-format most likely to generate reports, brand-safety vetoes, and press screenshots — and it's also just off-brand for a bio that says "All Glory to God."
- Fix: archive both today. If the man-on-the-street dating angle stays, invert it to the joy side (compliment content, wingman bits, consensual participants who are in on it) — that version is recommendable and matches the account's actual audience.

– "She did not take rejection well 😂😭 #prank" – 1K likes on a 101K account, and the mocking-caption framing that converts a street clip into a harassment read.

MEDIUM — THREE SMALLER PATTERNS

- Hashtag spam: #explorepage #fyp on every post are dead-weight bait tags (they do nothing on IG and read as spam); the #prank #troll tags actively label the content for the classifier. Tag the content honestly and sparingly (#comedy, #streetinterview, location tags).
- Volatility masking the trend: the cigarette reel's 1.5M can make the troll run feel fine — but its sibling posts at 215–1K likes are the tell. One survivor doesn't disprove the demotion pattern; the spread does.
- Tobacco-as-prop: the cigarette-begging bit brushes the tobacco content bucket (teen-filtered). Not worth changing retroactively; just don't make smoking a recurring prop.

LOW — WHAT'S HEALTHY

- Verified; clean Instagram bio (no aggregators, codes, or funnels on IG itself); following count healthy; event promo for his Oct 17 show is fine and worth doing more of. No removal-layer content found anywhere on the reviewed Instagram grid. (The off-platform links have their own findings — see Section 6.)

TWO FORMATS, ONE VERDICT

JOY BAIT — THE PROVEN BRAND

- "Slapped for $20" — `36.4M views`
- "Joy Baiting Cops" — `21.6M views`
- "True Love" / "cutie patootie" — `2M likes each`
- Consensual, positive payoff → fully recommendable

RAGE/TROLL BAIT — THE DRIFT

- "More money" — `215 likes`
- Balcony troll — `991 views`
- "Rejecting Girls" — `55.2K views` + report magnet
- Anger-as-payoff → demoted, reported, off-brand

The account's own pinned manifesto said it first: Joy Baiting >>> Rage Baiting. This audit is just the receipts.

CROSS-PLATFORM EXPOSURE

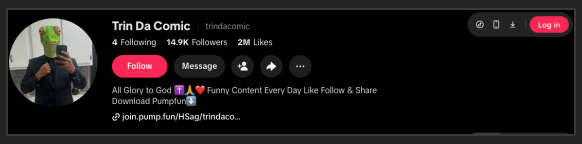

Every platform on the landing page, scored against its own rules:

PLATFORM	AUDIENCE	WHAT WE FOUND	RISK ON THAT PLATFORM	MOVE
YouTube @anuarofficialyt	—	Bio link is dead — "This page isn't available"; no active channel found in search	First link on the IG bio sends 101K followers' clicks to a 404	Fix or remove today; if the channel was terminated, get the email — it changes the YouTube strategy

PLATFORM	AUDIENCE	WHAT WE FOUND	RISK ON THAT PLATFORM	MOVE
TikTok @trindacomic	14.9K · 2M likes	Same joy-vs-troll split as IG (pinned 14.6M views vs. recent clips at 2–8K) — plus a join.pump.fun referral link in the bio and a "Meme Coin Trader" video	Memecoin-launchpad referral = undisclosed financial promotion; TikTok auto-detects commercial content and restricts repeat offenders	Remove the Pump.fun link and video today; apply the same joy-format rule
Twitch trin_dacomic	5 followers	Dormant, offline, links back to IG/YouTube	None today; note Twitch enforces off-platform conduct if he activates it	Remove from bio until streaming is real

HIGH — THE PUMP.FUN REFERRAL CONTAMINATES THE CLEAN BRAND ON TIKTOK

- What it is: the TikTok bio reads "Download Pumpfun⬇️" over a live join.pump.fun referral link, with a "Day in the life of Meme Coin Trader" video on the grid. Pump.fun is a memecoin launchpad — speculative crypto promotion, with a referral relationship that TikTok's branded-content enforcement treats as undisclosed commercial content (auto-detected, visibility-restricted, ban-tier on repeat).
- Why it matters beyond TikTok: his Instagram links to this TikTok, so the crypto funnel sits one hop from the IG audience too — the same one-hop rule Meta applies to Linktrees. And a "God + wholesome comedy" brand carrying a memecoin referral is exactly the mismatch that kills brand deals when a sponsor's vetting team finds it.

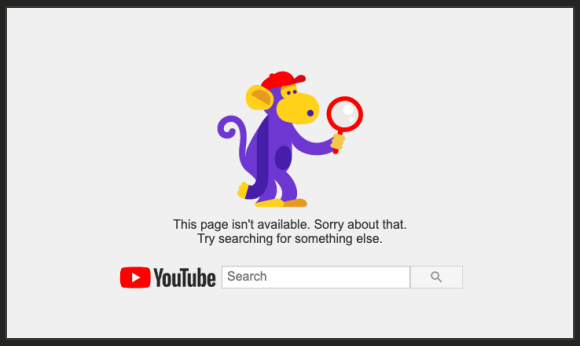

— TikTok bio at audit time: 14.9K followers, 2M likes — and a live join.pump.fun referral link under "Download Pumpfun⬇️".

- Fix: remove the link and the trader video today. If crypto content is a genuine interest, it needs its own clearly-separated account — it cannot share a surface with the family-friendly brand.

MEDIUM — THE LANDING PAGE'S FIRST IMPRESSION IS A DEAD LINK

- The IG bio's first link (YouTube @anuarofficialyt) returns "This page isn't available," and YouTube search surfaces no active comedy channel for him. Every click from 101K followers' profile visits lands on a 404.
- If the channel was renamed, fix the link; if it was terminated, we need the termination email — YouTube's 2025–26 rules (especially around pranks and gambling) decide what a relaunch can safely carry, and a terminated channel's content strategy can't just be re-uploaded.
- Twitch (5 followers, dormant) should come off the bio until it's real — dead links read as abandonment to both audiences and brand scouts.

– The first link on his Instagram bio, as his audience sees it.

Routing rule for this client: comedy earns reach on IG + TikTok (+ a rebuilt YouTube when ready) under one format rule everywhere — strangers leave happier than they arrived. Nothing financial, nothing crypto, nothing gambling touches any surface of this brand.

ACTION PLAN

Today:

1. Archive the two rejection-format reels and "More money more problems."
2. Remove the Pump.fun link + "Meme Coin Trader" video from TikTok; fix or remove the dead YouTube link; drop the dormant Twitch link.
3. Decide the format rule going forward, on every platform: strangers leave the video happier than they entered it. That one sentence is the whole compliance strategy.

This week:

1. Retire #explorepage/#fyp/#troll tags; tag honestly and sparingly.
2. Post 2 joy-bait reels (the Sep 18 "I love Joybaiting" reel at 7.3K likes vs. its troll siblings at 215–1K shows the audience is asking for it).
3. Settings → Account Status — screenshot both panels for baseline; we expect "can't be recommended" entries on the troll reels.

Ongoing:

1. Joy-bait as the spine (2–3/week), skits and event promos as seasoning; zero anger-payoff content.
2. Get quick on-camera consent/releases from featured strangers — standard practice in the street niche, kills the report risk, and happy participants sign willingly.

3. Watch for reach normalization over 2–4 weeks; the 1.5M cigarette reel says distribution recovers fast once the pattern flips.

08 /

WHAT WE NEED FROM THE CLIENT

1. Settings → Account Status — both panels.
2. Insights → Reach → non-follower % for the last 90 days (we want to see the joy→troll inflection in his own data).
3. Whether any strikes/warnings arrived on the rejection reels specifically.
4. His consent practice on street shoots today (verbal? release app? none?).
5. What happened to the YouTube channel (renamed vs. terminated — forward the email if terminated), and the terms of the Pump.fun referral arrangement.

Re-audit at 30 days: confirm the troll run archived, format rule holding, and troll-era reels no longer listed in Account Status.

This audit assesses compliance with Meta's published Community Standards and Recommendation Guidelines as understood at the audit date. Enforcement is partly discretionary; no compliance change guarantees restored reach. All recommendations aim at genuine compliance — we do not advise disguising violating content, which converts reach problems into account-loss problems.
